LITIGATION MAY NOT CLOSE CHURCH OWNERSHIP TROUBLE

Splendid $100,000 Edifice at Monessen Basis of Present Controversy

RUSSIAN OR GREEK, WHICH

That is Question Decided by Judge in Westmoreland After Delving Deep Into Creeds—Former Congregation Favored in the Decree.

Litigation to determine the ownership of the splendid $100,000 church edifice of the congregation at Monessen of the Greek Catholic church of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary, decided in favor of the original congregation by Judge Charles Copeland in Westmoreland county equity court, is not expected to end the trouble. In his decree Judge Copeland instructs Rev. T. Levkanich a Russian Orthodox priest and his followers to turn over the keys of the church to Rev. Paul Ruttkay and his followers and to not attempt to hold church services at the church. In giving at the facts of the case the Westmoreland county courts had to delve deep into details of the dogmas and beliefs of two opposing factions, as well as the history of the church. In 1901 natives of Austria Hungary who were Monessen residents organized the congregation of the Greek Catholic church of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary. The congregation worshipped from that date until 1914 according to the rites, customs, beliefs and usages of the United Greek Catholic church. Then along came Rev. V. Levkanich, a priest of the Russian Orthodox Catholic church. Soon things were changed, the Russian rites, customs and usages differing greatly from those of the Greeks. The Russian priest's followers assumed practically entire charge of the denomination. Courts were appealed to and a hearing followed that has just been completed. In his decree Judge Copeland restrains Rev. Levkanich from holding any services in the church, from officiating as a minister in the Greek Catholic church of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary and from diverting the church property to any form of worship other than that prescribed in the charter adopted at the time of the organization. The decree further directs Rev. Levkanich and his followers to turn over the keys to the church and parsonage.

PENNSYLVANIA CLIMATE GOOD ENOUGH FOR HIM

"I had planned a trip to the Pacific coast this summer for the benefit of my health, but after spending three days in splitting locust posts and plowing on the farm of my brother I feel so much better that I will spend the summer in Pennsylvania, where the climate is just as good as it is in California." This statement was made by Daniel Gayman of Zollarsville a veteran school teacher and a former Charleroi high school principal.

Mrs. Mary Ammon Departs West Columbia and Makes First Visit To Neighboring Borough, Donora.

For the first time in 30 years Mrs. Mary Ammon of Donora has left her own lot and for the first time since the founding of Donora has seen that town. Yet she has lived at West Columbia, Donora's nearest neighbor for years. Mrs. Ammon was the last of the West Columbia residents to sell her property to the steel corporation operating at Donora. Moving was necessitated of course and she lately has occupied a home in Donora. Mrs. Ammon is 76 years old and has raised a family of 12 children. Her husband, Jacob Ammon is dead.

FRICK PURCHASE IS NOT DENIED

Alice Mine Story Correct Estimates Officials of Company at Scottdale

SCALE ANTICIPATED SOON

No denial has been made by officials of the H. C. Frick Coke company of the report that the Alice mine opposite Roscoe will be purchased from the Pittsburgh Coal company and this fact is taken by those in close touch as being virtually a confirmation. The Brownsville Telegraph says of the purported purchase: "That the H. C. Frick Coke company is contemplating the purchase of the Alice mine, along the Monongahela river, near Roscoe, from the Pittsburgh Coal company, as an outlet for the Colonial mines, situated along Redstone creek in Fayette county, was intimated this morning from the general offices of the Frick company at Scottdale, although W. H. Glassgow, assistant to General Superintendent Lynch refused either to deny or confirm the reported purchase. "I had not heard the report recently," said Mr. Glassgow, "but it has been talked of for some time. It is possible that the negotiations are at this time being made by the Pittsburgh offices of the two companies. The Scottdale office has no information about the matter and I cannot either confirm or deny the report." "Coal and river men well informed about the conditions in the Monongahela valley, have anticipated the purchase of the Alice mine by the Frick company for some time, but since the subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation commenced the construction of a huge by-product plant at Clairton, it is believed that the Frick company has now commenced negotiations for the acquisition of the Alice mine."

farewell for Mr. Stroud who will leave within the next few days for Alliance, Ohio. Out of town guests were present from California, Donora, Belle Vernon and Monessen.

PLATE GLASS FACTORY NOW BEING OPERATED

Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company Getting Gradual Start at Local Plant—First Glass Ready for Shipment Soon

Gradually the Charleroi plant of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company is being put into operation on the fifty per cent basis that will characterize its activity for the present. New machinery has been installed and the resumption is for an indefinite period according to those in close touch with the situation. On Tuesday the first glass except Carara, that has been manufactured at the plant was sent to the polishing room for the finishing touches. Within a few days or two shipments will be possible.

Approximately 300 men are now being employed, with local men well known in the glass trade and some from other localities that have been connected for years with the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company, as department heads. Moulding was started about the first of April. However it will be several days before everything is running in ship shape. There is a general belief, though announcement from the company to the effect has not been forthcoming, that by the end of the year the plant will be in complete operation.

BROWNSVILLE BOROUGH ALMOST MAKES ERROR

Council Burns Bonds Upon Discovery That They Are Illegal—Goes Too Far Without Vote of People on Proposed Issue

Nineteen thousand dollars worth of perfectly good-looking bonds of the borough of Brownsville authorized by authorities of the municipality and to all appearances as good collateral as was ever issued, went up in smoke in the basement of the Monongahela bank at Brownsville Tuesday in the presence of the chief burgess and president of town council, the chairman of the finance committee and the borough treasurer. The incineration was in compliance with a resolution of Brownsville town council passed two weeks ago. The fact is that though these bonds had every appearance of goodness, they lacked the merit of compliance with the state law which forbids town council to issue bonds in excess of 2 per cent of the assessed valuation without vote of the people. It appears that after these bonds had been actually sold to the highest bidder and were about to be delivered, the existence of $1,500 worth of unpaid bonded obligations of the borough was discovered. This vitiated the whole issue. Town council at its meeting Monday evening passed an ordinance repealing the ordinance authorizing these bonds and furthermore, authorized the advertisement of a new bond issue of $19,000 to meet obligations that the issue destroyed was intended to meet. The ordinance authorizing the new issue will not be passed until after the sale of the proposed bond. So that there will be no technical error to cause a recurrence of the incident therein related.

BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE ELECT GROUP OFFICERS AT MEETING

Sheridan Roberts of Monongahela Named President of Monongahela Valley Organization.

The Monongahela valley group of the Baptist Young People's Union held a rally at the Monessen Baptist church Tuesday evening at which one of the features was the election of officers for the ensuing year. Those elected were as follows: President, Sheridan Roberts of Monongahela; vice president, Richard Simmons of Monessen; secretary, Miss R. Davis of Donora; treasurer, Russell Carl of Charleroi. An address was made during the evening by Dr. E. A. Leslie of Pittsburgh, who is a medical missionary to Africa. Members of the Monongahela and Riverview societies gave a missionary drama, "One Day in India," using native costumes.

Fourth Street Paving From Meadow to Oakland Avenue Now Possible

OTHER MATTERS CONSIDERED

Borough May Go Into Step Building: Business as Result of Request from Twelfth Street Residents—Lookout Avenue Comes in for Inspection.

Borough improvements likely will follow the tour of inspection taken by members of council Tuesday evening over practically the entire borough. Among the improvements may be that of the grading and paving of Fourth street from Meadow avenue to Oakland avenue. Action on the matters considered during the tour will be taken when council meets in adjourned session on Tuesday evening next.

One of the important contemplated improvements to which the attention of council was drawn on its hurried trip was that of a stairway leading up near Twelfth street from Lincoln avenue to the hill district. What council will do on this matter remains to be seen, but it is anticipated instructions will be given to have the stairway built. Steps have been ordered for a distance of between 115 and 300 feet, as needed.

An ordinance had already been passed for the paving of Fourth street from Crest avenue to Meadow avenue and if plans are carried out for the improvement of the remainder of the street, it will only be a continuation as heretofore requested of the work. The grade was established some years ago before the section began to build up as it is now. An ordinance it is anticipated will at once be prepared.

Besides visiting at Twelfth street and considering the matter of a stairway, council inspected other places where improvements and alterations have been requested. President D. R. Duvall headed the body of councilmen, and all members of the organization with the exception of Councilman W. H. Caldwell, who has been in ill health, made the trip. A stop was made on Third street where Lookout avenue was inspected at its intersection.

Notice to Contractors. Sealed proposals for re-roofing School Building No. 3, corner of Second street and Fallowfield avenue, will be received by the Board of Directors of the School District of the Borough of Charleroi, until 8 o'clock, Tuesday evening, April 18, 1916. The right to reject any or all bids is reserved by the Board. Plans and specifications can be had by applying to Dr. T. M. Faddis, Secretary.

MR. MAURER AND THE FLAG

James H. Maurer, in a speech in New York Sunday night opposing the plan to establish a State colliery for the Empire State, says the Pittsburg Dispatch diverted from its subject long enough to urge on representatives of labor that they should never take up arms in defense of the country, nor be ready to shed their blood except in the battles of their own class. Then he is quoted as shouting: "To hell with the Stars and Stripes!"

Mr. Maurer is a member of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives from the First district of Berks County. He is also the president of the State Federation of Labor of Pennsylvania. He has long been recognized as an ardent Socialist, though his value to his party may be open to question in view of the opinions of some of the party's leaders.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor the other day discussed the question of preparedness and said in effect, among other things that it was a matter in which labor was as much interested as any other element of the population, for if the country suffered for want of preparation labor must suffer with the rest. The representative from Berks never has been taken very seriously by any outside of his party and it may be doubted if some of his party rate him very high. But it would be interesting to know how the State Federation of Labor regards denunciation of the flag by the man chosen to be the head of the organization. It would be interesting also to get the sentiment of his fellow members of the House of Representatives toward such an expression and the colleague who would give utterance to it. A member of the House of Representatives before assuming office, swears to uphold the Constitution of the Commonwealth and of the United States.

ANNUAL SPRING CLEANUP

According to the calendar and the rules of the solar system spring has been on the job for more than two weeks, but the weather thus far has not been calculated to encourage the householder, either in town or country to set about the work of cleaning up the premises, says the Washington Reporter. The recent snow may safely be called winter's last desperate effort—a sort of rear-guard action. Soon will come sunny days, and with them abundant opportunities for getting rid of the debris of the winter, which should not be neglected. Whether one live in the city or in one of the big boroughs in a small town or in the real country, one owes a duty to oneself and to one's friends in this matter of removing the dangerous and the ugly accumulations of the winter. The fresh spring air should not be subjected to any handicap in its kindly offices of bearing new health and strength into the community. At the earliest possible moment let the debris disappear.

The injury of the boy at California who has lost the sight of one eye from the effect of a pen point injury is one of the most unfortunate occurrences of the school room that lately has been brought to public notice. The story relates to the attempted disciplining of a certain pupil by a teacher. In striking at his hands it seems she caused a pen to go hurtling through the air backwards. The point lodged in the eye of the lad seated behind. He is disabled for life. How is the question of justice to be decided in a case like this? The teacher was probably well within her bounds attempting corporal punishment. Maintaining obedience is a prime essential in teaching school. Success depends upon it, consequently the teacher is authorized to do as her conscience dictates and as she feels necessary as different circumstances arise. Perhaps greater care might have been exercised in this particular case. Yet the accident was one of a thousand. Determining a course now is manifestly impossible. What might have been doesn't matter, since what we think now cannot by any possibility have any bearing. The point to be determined is that of possible negligence.

For all practical purposes the resumption of the Pittsburg Plate Glass plant here has the effect of a new industry though it is distinctly

81 LIQUOR LICENSE GRANTED IN FAYETTE

Judge E. H. Robert Hands Down List—Perryopolis—Applicant Only One Refused Among Old Ones—No New Licenses Favored.

Fifty-four retail, 18 distillery and nine brewery licenses were granted Tuesday in Fayette county when Judge E. H. Reppert handed down the liquor license list. Three retail applications were held over. Jesse B. Wyatt, proprietor of the Perry hotel at Perryopolis, was the only old applicant refused. A remonstrance bearing nearly 1,000 signers was filed against him, the complaint being lack of necessity.

No new applicants were given licenses and the court in granting the brewery and distillery applicants emphasized the fact that the salesroom closing time—6 o'clock—must be adhered to strictly.

The Ohiopyle House, at the famous Fayette county pleasure resort; at Ohiopyle, was held over on account of there being two applicants for the place. The Albion Hotel at Fairchance was held over for the same reason. The York Run Hotel at York Run was held over because the building, recently destroyed by fire has not been rebuilt. C. B. Gribble, applying for a license for the Smithfield Hotel at Smithfield, was refused, as was John Ramage, applying for whole-sale license in the Second ward, Uniontown.

THE WHIP IN RIFLE BARRELS.

It is Caused by the Pressure of Modern High Power Powder.

The use of high power powder in rifles has given rise to a phenomenon, which did not exist in black powder days. This is known as "whip" and is due to the pressure and vibration set up by the powder. It is constant with given loads and is always in the same direction.

Sights are aligned by the manufacturer to compensate for this whip in proportion to the powder charge used in firing auxiliary cartridges it will often be found that the rifle shoots off center. As a matter of fact the bullet from the auxiliary is traveling in a true line with the bore, and it is the sights that are wrong. The lighter charge of the auxiliary does not produce the usual whip, with the result that the line in prolongation of the bore of the rifle along which the bullet travels is not the line given by the alignment of the sights.

Two other rifle terms that must not be confused are up-set and keyholing. Keyholing is the tendency of the bullet to turn over in flight, while up-set is the slight shortening of the major axis of the bullet due to the force of the charge. It was peculiar to black powder fired behind lead bullets and does not exist to any appreciable extent in metal jacketed bullets with smokeless powder. In the latter case the charge burns more slowly and the jacket stiffens the bullet against the sudden blow from behind.—Outing.

ORIGIN OF THE PERISCOPE.

The Reflecting Spyglass Used at the Siege of Sebastopol.

Speaking of the origin of the periscope, the following extract from the writings of the well known inventor of "Pepper's Ghost" gives the credit to the clerical profession. Pepper wrote soon after the Crimean war.

"During the siege of Sebastopol numbers of our best artillerymen were continually picked off by the enemy's rifles as well as by cannon shot, and in order to put a stop to the foolhardiness and inattention of the men, a very ingenious contrivance was invented by the Rev. William Taylor, the conductor of Mr. Denison in constructing the first 'Big Ben' bell. It was called the reflecting spyglass, and by its simple construction rendered the exposure of the sailors and soldiers who would look over the parapet or other parts of the works to observe the effect of their shots perfectly unnecessary, while another form was constructed for the purpose of allowing the gunner to 'lay' or aim his gun in safety.

"The instruments were shown to Lord Paumure, who was so convinced of the importance of the invention that he immediately commissioned the Rev. William Taylor to have a number of these telescopes constructed, and if the siege had not terminated just at the time the invention was to have been used no doubt a great saving of the valuable lives of the skilled artillerymen would have been effected."—London Express.

Gam's Dry Humor.

When the gallant Welsh captain, David Gam, was sent forward by Henry V. to reconnoiter the French army before the battle of Agincourt he found that the enemy outnumbered the English by about five to one. His report to the king is historic:

"There are enough to be killed, enough to be taken prisoners and enough to run away."

This quaint forecast of the result of the battle at once spread through the camp, and doubtless every yeoman archer of the valiant company felt an inch taller. We know that it was almost literally justified by the event. Poor Gam's dry humor was equalled by his courage. He was killed while in the act of saving the life of his prince.—London Standard.

Distilled Water.

Distilled water after having been exposed to the air is one of the most salubrious of drinks. Its daily use in measured quantities is helpful in cases of dyspepsia and greatly assists the general functions of the body. Every large steamer carries a water distilling apparatus by which sea water is made fresh. Well Fitted.

"Yes, grandma: I am to be married next month."

"But, my dear," said grandma earnestly, "you are very young. Do you feel that you are fitted for married life?"

"I am being fitted now, grandma," explained the prospective bride sweetly. "Seven gossus."—Kansas City Journal.

NAILING AN IMAGE.

Curious Custom of the Natives of the Kongo Country.

Among the curious objects in the home of the Royal Geographical society at Kensington Gore, in London, is a fetish that was captured in 1865 from river pirates on the Kongo river. It is a wooden figure with 15,000 eyes that glitter unquenchably in the dark. A number of heavy nails have been driven into its body.

According to Mr. T. A. Joyce of the British museum, the practice of driving nails into images has two purposes. One is simply to get a favor granted. In that case the worshiper on paying the fetish a fee is permitted to drive a nail into the figure while uttering his petition. The other purpose is to insure an enemy. In that case the applicant pays a heavy fee and drives his nail into the figure in the belief that his enemy will fall ill and die.

A man who falls ill goes at once to the fetish man and makes inquiries, and if he finds that an enemy has driven a nail into the idol with him in mind he knows the fetish man heavily to remove it. That, he thinks, insures his getting well.

The principle underlying the practice is quite different from that underlying the old practice of making a wax image of an enemy and driving pins into it. The wax figure represented the victim, who in some occult way felt in his own person the abuse lavished on his effigy. The nail driven into the wooden figure, on the contrary, is to remind the god to perform the wishes of the petitioner. It is, as it were, to tie a string round his finger.—Youth's Companion.

LEGEND OF THE VAMPIRE.

Queer Beliefs That Cling About This Old World Superstition.

The vampire, according to the belief of eastern Europe, is the physical body of a dead person, male or female, that maintains itself in a sort of half life in the grave by returning to its former haunts and nourishing itself on the blood of living persons. This superstition is characteristically Slavonic.

The vampire superstition is strongest in White Russia and the Ukraine though it also pervades the popular belief in Poland and Serbia, among the Czechs of Bohemia and the Slovaks of Hungary and is to be traced as far as Albania and Greece. Comparative philology proves it to have had a common origin with the equally hideous legend of the were wolf, a human being who could at will assume the appearance and ferocity of a wolf, which if wound in its nocturnal pursuits in the head or limbs could not efface its injuries or escape detection when it returned to its human form.

The vampire is to be detected during his visits to the haunts of man by his extreme pallor, his unnaturally long and pointed canine teeth and his fetid breath. The vampire also throws no shadow either upon the ground or on a looking glass and is never seen to eat or drink. How he leaves and re-enters his grave is an undecided point, because no one is ever supposed to have had the courage and address to see, but the belief is that locked doors and closed windows are no bar to his movements.—London Globe.

Trial of a Dead Man.

Charles de Bourlon, high constable of France, died in conquering Rome which his leaderless soldiers straightway sacked. For this crime it was necessary to find a scapegoat, so on July 26, 1527, in the presence of King Francis I., on his seat of justice, assisted by the peers of France and the assembled chambers, Jean d' Suric first usher of the court, called Charles de Bourlon three times—at the bar of the parliament, at the marble table and at the marble steps—and then reported that the said de Bourlon had not appeared. The sentence was drawn up, then solemnly read. The connote ble de France, dead, was condemned his goods returned to the crown, and the door of his palace by the Louvre was painted yellow.

Teeth Tell Sheep's Age.

A lamb has eight small teeth in the lower jaw. When the animal reaches the age of about one year the middle pair are replaced by two permanent teeth; at the age of about two the teeth on either side of these permanent teeth are also replaced by two, and at the age of three the next tooth on either side gives way to a permanent tooth, and at the age of four the last or back teeth are replaced in like manner.—Farm and Home.

Grievously Disappointed.

"Have you found out why Jinks is looking so depressed these days?"

"It seems that a friend of Jinks was in financial difficulties and Jinks offered him his help."

"Well?"

"His friend took him up."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Pugnacious Dove.

Peace lovers had better find another bird to become symbolical of their ideas, for the dove is not a bird of peace, but is one of the most pugnacious little fighters. In fact, the dove fights a large part of its waking hours.—Washington Star.

His Reasons.

"They say the widower who has just married nearly always is broken up when his first wife dies."

"That is true, but I am not a widower, and I have not been broken up."

Charleroi People Give Credit Where Credit is Due.

People of Charleroi who suffer with weak kidneys and had backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. Doan's Kidney Pills is a medicine for the kidneys only and one that is backed by willing testimony of Charleroi people. Here's a case:

Mrs. Fred Jackson, 207 Prospect Avenue, Charleroi, says: "I was troubled by a constant backache. If I did a little extra work the pain in my back was intense. I didn't rest well at night and got up in the morning lame and stiff. If I stopped, sharp pains caught me and I could hardly straighten up. I also had rheumatic pains in my back and arms. I couldn't do any sweeping. Dizzy spells and hot flashes bothered me terribly. As Doan's Kidney Pills had been used in he family, I got a box at Piper Bros., Drug Store and began taking them. One box practically cured me."

MATTRESS CAMPAIGN TO BE THOROUGH IN STATE

No Halfway Effort to Satisfy Those In Charge of Law Enforcement—Inspectors Discover And Condemn Many of Improper Manufacture.

Thousands of mattresses, offered for sale in various sections of Pennsylvania, have been condemned by inspectors of the Department of Labor and Industry in the campaign instituted by Commissioner John Price Jackson to enforce the "pure mattress law" passed by the legislature. Prosecutions for flagrant violations have been instituted and fines have been imposed.

The inspection of mattresses, offered for sale, has been conducted under the direct supervision of Dr. Francis D. Patterson, Chief of the Division of Hygiene and Engineering of the Labor Department.

In the Pittsburgh district alone 39,514 mattresses, offered for sale in violation of the Act, were discovered. Of these mattresses, 25,000 were not properly tagged, 13,168 contained material prohibited by law and 1346 were second hand mattresses.

Inspectors of the department have discovered that the tremendous demand for cotton and similar material in the manufacture of ammunition for the European war has caused a dearth of material suitable for filling mattresses of the cheaper grades. Some manufacturers claim that this lack of material has been responsible for many of the violations of the law.

It has also been found that many mattresses, not conforming to the Pennsylvania law, are being shipped into Pennsylvania from factories in adjoining States. Several car loads of mattresses have been condemned before they were unloaded.

Mattresses must be manufactured of approved material thoroughly sterilized and disinfected. A second-hand mattress may not be sold unless it has been sterilized by an approved method and a mattress that has been used by a person having any contagion or infectious disease may not be resold under any conditions. Every mattress offered for sale must have securely sewed to its cover, a linen or muslin tag not less than 3x4 1/2 inches in size and bearing the name of the manufacturer and vendor as well as a complete description of the contents of the mattress. Shoddy may not be used in any mattress.

The campaign to enforce the "pure mattress law" is being waged in all sections of the state and will be continuous to prevent the spread of contagious or infectious diseases by the sale of contaminated mattresses.

The board of directors for the coming year was elected by the stockholders of the Eldora Amusement Company at a meeting held in Charleroi Tuesday, the board to consist of the following: J. E. Masters, W. H. Calvert, T. P. Sloan, John B. Schaefer, and E. J. Charles all of Charleroi, W. A. McShaffrey of Monessen and Dr. H. T. Billick of Monongahela.

Plans were discussed for the coming season and several improvements were considered. Reports indicated that the coming season will be one of the best in the history of the park.

LIGHTNING LANDS ON DONORA POLISH CHURCH

Only through good fortune was heavy damage prevented when the steeple of the Donora Polish church struck by lightning during the electrical storm of Tuesday evening. That steeple of the Donora Polish church was known until about a half hour after the occurrence. Then smoke was seen issuing and a fire alarm was turned in. The blaze was extinguished and the loss was only about $200.

INCLEMENT WEATHER DOES NOT DISCOURAGE CHURCH ATTENDANCE

Notwithstanding the stormy weather North Charleroi sent a large delegation to the Methodist Episcopal evangelistic services Tuesday evening, the evening being set apart especially for them. Several musical selections were announced by them as favorites and when requested to sing in a body they responded heartily.

The pastor, Dr. W. G. Mead, had for his subject, "Pitching the Tent Toward Sodom." He drew out the striking contrast between Lot who grabbed the best land, but with it chose the vilest associates, and Abram who pitched his tent toward Hebron and build an altar unto the Lord.

District No. 1 and 2 of the church plan will feature the meeting tonight. This includes Methodists residing from First to Fifth streets from McKean avenue to Washington.

THE CAUSE OF ANAEMIA

It is universally known that iron is a very important element of the blood, and lack of it is the direct cause of run-down conditions and anaemia. It may interest our readers to know that Piper's Drug Store of this town have in Vinol a reliable constitutional remedy for such conditions. Vinol supplies iron to the blood in its most soluble state, then there's the nourishing properties of beef peptone and the medicinal curative extractives of fresh cod livers, without oil, all dissolved in a pure native tonic wine. That's what makes Vinol so successful in overcoming run-down and anaemic conditions.

WHEN BIRDS MIGRATE

Yearly Flight of the Wheatear From Africa to Greenland.

In flying from Europe to Africa birds cross the Mediterranean sea at a point where the water is so shallow that it is believed the two continents were formerly connected there. The land bridge, which it is thought formerly guided the birds in their flight, has disappeared, but the habit of crossing at this particular place still remains.

How do you suppose the little wheatear, no larger than a bluebird, formed the habit of migrating from Europe to Greenland? Probably he comes by way of England and Iceland, but at the best it is a long journey and seems to take the bird much farther than it is necessary to go. In the autumn he goes back to winter in Africa.

Doubtless some European water birds visit us every year, but the wheatear, so far as I know, is the only land bird which migrates regularly between North America and Africa. With this exception, no North American land birds leave the western hemisphere in their migrations.

The birds of the western United States are not such great travelers as those of the eastern part of our country. Some of them travel only from the higher parts of the Rocky mountains or Sierras, where they nest, to the low, warm valleys in which they winter.

Those that leave the United States go into Mexico. Some continue their journey as far south as Guatemala, but few go farther south than that. They can, therefore, make their journey overland and so do not encounter the dangers to which many of our eastern migrants are exposed.—Frank M. Chapman in St. Nicholas.

MYSTERY OF THE MOLE.

He Lives in the Dark, Yet Yearns For the Midday Sun.

There is a great mystery about the moles. They live in the dark underground, but yet they are sun worshippers. Just at the hour of noon, when the sun is at its highest point in the sky, the mole often comes to the surface. It is a habit of the race, a kind of religious observance, one might think.

Seldom does a mole willingly make its appearance in the upper world at any other time of the day, but at that moment they come of their own accord. This fact, which has been observed again and again, has never been explained by naturalists.

But, remembering the common belief that a mole is blind, you may ask, "How can it see the sun?" The myth of the blindness of moles has been brushed away. Some species perhaps cannot see, but most of them can. Their eyes are very small and hidden in the fine hair, but they serve as organs of vision.

Still, they can have very little use for them underground. Any leakings of daylight that may penetrate there must be extremely faint, and if their eyes were meant to enable them to see with so little illumination they ought to be large and free from obstruction, whereas they are minute and thatched with hair. But such eyes may be particularly well suited for an occasional look at the blinding sun.—New York Journal.

Imprisonment For Debt.

About the middle of the last century the power of imprisoning a debtor for life was taken from the creditor, and it fills one with amazement to think that a system so ridiculous should have continued as long as it did. The three principal debtors' prisons in England were the King's Bench, the Marshalsea and the Borough Compter. In the year 1759 there were 20,000 prisoners for debt in Great Britain and Ireland. The utility of the system was quite as great as its barbarity. More than half the prisoners in some of the prisons were kept there solely because they could not pay the attorneys' costs. Many prisoners had their wives and children with them. There was no infirmity, no resident surgeon and no bath.—Dundee Advertiser.

There's This Difference.

When a woman buys a hat and meets another woman:
"How do you like this hat, dear?"
"Lovely, simply lovely. You have such good taste." (Later "Of all the hats I ever saw that's the worst.")
When a man buys a hat and meets another man:
"How'du like the hat, Mike? Class, eh?"
"Say, is that a hat? Who stung you?"—Detroit News.

The Trouble.

"Confound the luck!" growled the visitor. "Here's this front door been freshly painted!"
"Yes," said his friend from a safe distance. "It is hard luck. Any one to look at you can see you have been up against it."—Baltimore American.
